CAN YOU BELIEVE. . .

Dennis E. Kenny, Regional Director

Its 60 plus today in Cleveland! I am so ready for spring, flowers and new beginnings.

There certainly have been emails, letters and phone calls flying regarding the Board of Reps decision to approve changes to the Certification process made by a Task Force on Certification. All but two of the members were from the Certification Commission. The Chair of Certification sat on the committee. The most I've heard in our region is that while we support the changes - many disagreed with the process. The region voted to send a letter to Certification stating our concerns on the process. I have attached an outline of the steps taken from the North Central region which might be helpful for those trying to follow events.

I have two overall concerns with what I've been reading. The first is that facts have a tendency to get lost when people get passionate. People have been quoting standards and By-laws and or interpreting them in ways that were foreign to me. I recommend you read them if you are in one of these conversations.

One thing is clear to me - we are in a transition of governance in the organization. We often ask for representative governance when we already have one. We seem to mix up "every voice should be heard" with representation. For instance, the majority of the Task Force was from the Certification Commission but some commissioners felt it did not "represent" the commission.

More importantly I have a pastoral concern. I have been appalled by the personal accusations, the vitriol, hostility and authority rebellion that has made its way into the conversations. We are talking at each other in ways we would never tolerate in our students. It is very representative of the "We/ They" conversations between ACPE and FCPE that occurred a few years ago.

The regional directors have committed to talking about the way these conversations occurred and what they mean for the organization. This way of talking and disagreeing should be addressed. We should communicate in the ways we teach and remember that we are in relationship with each other.

PEOPLE:

We have five people appearing before the Certification Commission in Austin. Jeff Holman, Vicky Johnson, Whit Stodghill, Les Stokes and Greta Wagner. In addition, Mary Q. Brown, formerly from the region, is appearing for supervisor. Wish all of these people well and send prayers their way.

PRESIDENT

Somewhat lost in the Certification conversations is that we will be nominating a President-elect in Austin. If you are interested or know of someone who can help lead this organization please bring the name forward.

[See the attached description from the North Central Region].

Enjoy the Spring!

Love, Dennis / Email: RD@ecracpe.org Ph: 216-312-6145

TIMELINE OF RECENT CERTIFICATION ACTION PREPARED BY THE NORTH CENTRAL REGION

1. In 2006 a Taskforce was established to study our supervisory education standards with a view to assess the effectiveness of the current certification process. The Taskforce produced a nine-page document with several recommendations. Two of the recommendations focused on establishing a supervisory education curricula and the elimination of "Associate Supervisor" as a step toward CPE Supervisor, and making Associate status a terminus certification.
2. In the 20/20 Strategic Planning Initiative, a strategy was established to move forward with a process for separation of "Associate Supervisor" and "CPE Supervisor."
3. A Taskforce of the Board was established to study this strategy and make recommendations to the Board concerning its implementation. The Taskforce recommended that the National Certification Commission work on a plan to separate the two certifications and to place a moratorium on "CPE Supervisor" during the planning stages.
4. The ACPE Board voted "to declare a temporary suspension of the current Standard of the Commission Sub-Committee voting on the request of Associate Supervisors to be made ACPE Supervisors. The suspension was to be effective immediately and remain in effect until January 2015."
5. The ACPE Board then instructed the Certification Commission to develop a strategy for separating the two certifications. ACPE Supervisor was to be granted following the Associate Supervisor's consultation with a Certification Commission Sub Committee. No vote was to be taken at this appearance.
6. The ACPE Board enacted the certification changes listed in number five "recommended by the taskforce, whose membership included the certification chair and all but two members being Certification Commissioners. This decision did not come before the full Commission”(quotes are my edits)

7. ... These changes have also produced a flurry of emails among Certification Commission members, leading to a request from Commission members for the Board to rescind its action. This would provide the Commission time to consult, to work on implementation procedures, and for an orderly transition to a new standard.
8. Following a consultation with its attorney the ACPE Board maintained its action, indicating it had legal grounds to do so.
9. Several members of the National Certification Commission also consulted the ACPE attorney around the issue of Associate notations. The attorney informed these members that only the Commission could remove notations. Thus, the sub-committees must vote on notations before they can be removed. Once notations have been removed the Associate Supervisor may then become an ACPE Supervisor.
10. The National Certification Commission requested a conversation with the ACPE Board.

PASTORAL CONCERNS & CELEBRATIONS

H. Joan Lyke

- Remember Sr. Martha Amann in your prayers and thoughts as she recovers from surgery. You may send cards to her at: 1024 Sherwood Dr., Dayton, OH 45406; E-mail address is mamann03@yahoo.com
- As announced at our February conference, Walter Balk, is moving to the Pacific Region. The month of March was his last one in the ECR. We appreciate his valuable service on Certification, his leadership of our 2012 fall conference and his participation at our regional meetings. We wish him much happiness in the Pacific region!

“REFLECTIONS OF THE ACPE RACIAL ETHNIC MULTICULTURAL (REM) NETWORK INVITATIONAL 27TH”

Staff Chaplain, Lynel Beaty

“I must say that as a first time attendee of the REM Invitational I was not at all disappointed by any means. I enjoyed all aspects from the networking, to the workshops and the overall experience.

I am very grateful to the East Central Region for the scholarship which allowed me to attend the invitational this year. I was able to cover the cost of my hotel with those funds.

It is my hope that the East Central Region will continue to provide scholarships for future REM Invitationals, to afford the opportunity to others. Again, thank you from the bottom of my heart. An experience that will remain with me for a very long time."

Wilderness Promise

G. Wade Rowatt, Ph.D.

February 21, 2014, Hueston Woods

If I meet you
In the wilderness of our pain,
In the darkness of our souls, or
In the sadness of our losses,

I will not
Prune the brambles on our path,
Light a candle to hide our night,
Sound a trumpet to drown our cries,

I will
Feel the thorns with you,
Share the shadows with you,
Feel the wailing vibrate within you,

I will wait with you
for joy buds of new growth.

Astonished

A shovel made of just a few words,
Unearthed earth.
Just below the surface
Teeming raw life.*

The Problem: A Broken US Health Care System

To “put it in a nutshell,” the US health care system has become too complex and costly. More recent projections by the Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services indicate that the nation’s health care spending will keep outpacing economic growth despite a recent slowdown, now taking an extra year—to 2021—to reach nearly one-fifth of the Gross Domestic Product. (Kaiser Health News, June 13, 2012.)

Furthermore, the system’s reward system is not focused on patient needs, thereby hindering improvements in the safety and quality of care and threatening the nation’s economic stability. (Institute of Medicine of the National Academies, September 6, 2012.) [For further documentation, see Steven Brill, “Bitter Pill: How Outrageous Pricing and Egregious Profits Are Destroying Our Health Care,” Time, March 4, 2013. 16-55. Elisabeth Rosenthal, “The $2.7 Trillion Medical Bill.” The New York Times, June 2, 2013. 1, 18-19.]

Legislative Response: The Affordable Care Act (ACA)

Under ACA provisions, programs and controls that improve quality outcomes for patients and encourage more accountability among healthcare professionals began to go into effect in 2012. (Maureen Gropp and Mary Beth Schneider, “A New Day for Health Care.” The Indianapolis Star June 29, 2012.) State online insurance marketplaces are now operational. The Federal Government is running programs in the states not participating.

In 2015 Medicare will begin to reward the quality—not the quantity—of care under ACA provisions, wherein the Secretary of Health & Human Services will establish a payment modifier based upon the quality of care furnished compared to cost, including measures that reflect health outcomes. Also beginning in 2015 a payment modifier will apply to all physicians. (The Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act of 2010. Title III. Subtitle A, Part I, Section 3007, 2010. 670-674.)

Should the ACA be repealed, its impact will continue to be powerfully felt. Republican Medicare proposals are much the same as those of the ACA regarding limiting the overall growth of Medicare spending, increasing the contributions of upper-and middle-class Americans, and raising the eligibility age. (Ricardo Alonso-Zaldivar, “Finances Will Force Medicare Choices.” The Indianapolis Star January 2, 2012. A3.)

Corporate Health Care Response: Pay-for-Performance (P4P)

UnitedHealth Group, WellPoint and Aetna Are changing doctor and hospital pay toward P4P values. For example, Aetna is now offering a fee to primary-care practices that meet certain improved care standards. (Anna Wilde Mathews, “UnitedHealth Revamps Fees.” Wall Street Journal, February 9, 2012. B1.)

Partners HealthCare, which owns the Brigham and Women’s Hospital plus seven other hospitals and is affiliated with dozens of eastern Massachusetts clinics, in 2012 negotiated new contracts with Medicare and BlueCross BlueShield linking financial reward to clinical performance. Thus, as Brigham and Women’s is able to exceed its cost-reduction and quality-improvement targets, it can keep more money. Missing targets would cause loss of tens of millions of dollars ...a radical shift. Previously hospitals and medical groups mainly had a landlord-tenant relationship with doctors. With such contracts what is done behind doctors’ closed doors is now the hospital’s business too. (Atul Gawande, “Big Med.” The New Yorker, August 13-20, 2012. 53-63.)

Spiritual Care Response: Spiritual Care Evidence

Regarding the ancillary disciplines, “As implementation of P4P broadens... nurses and their leaders may be successful in using the programs and the data that come from them to justify investments in nursing services and solidify the profession’s position in the health care system. (Sean P. Clarke, et al., “Challenges and Directions for Nursing in the Pay-for-Performance Movement.” Policy Politics Nursing Practice May 2008 9:134.)

The same must also be said for professional spiritual care and education. The proverbial handwriting is on the wall. In remarks at the 5th annual Spirituality and Health Summer Institute hosted by the George Washington University for Health, U.S. Congressman Tim Ryan (D-Ohio) said that practitioners of spiritual care must develop and present the scientific evidence for its value to truly persuade healthcare delivery policymakers and decision makers on Capitol Hill. (HealthCare Chaplaincy Today, September 2013.) In other words, P4P “will rule” regarding the survival of professional spiritual care as we know it.

Given this rapidly emerging P4P paradigm in US health care, immediate actions are required to assure that Spiritual Care Departments (SCDs) survive and thrive in the new environment. An appropriate strategy has been set forth previously, and is presented here in abbreviated form. (John J. Gleason, “Can Chaplains Survive and Thrive with P4P?” Chaplaincy Today, 28:2, Autumn/Winter 2012. 17-18. and SCIFE e-News 6:1, Spring 2013.)

1. The SCD will develop and execute a realistic plan to learn as much as possible about P4P and its impact.

2. The SCD will take advantage of educational experiences and webinars offered by spiritual care associations at annual and regional conferences, as well as webinars.
3. The SCD will also utilize other P4P educational resources, to include: Cromwell, J. et al., eds. (2011). Pay for Performance in Health Care: Methods and Approaches. Research Triangle Park NC: RTI Press, 2011; also Studer, Q. (2010). Hardwire Your Hospital for P4P Success. Gulf Breeze FL: Firestarter.
4. The SCD will communicate with administrators and colleagues about its work in P4P language. Use such terms as cost-effective, knowledge base, desired outcomes, and evidence based best practices as appropriate.
5. In conversation with hospital administrators, the SCD will determine how the department can document current contributions to the institutional bottom line.
6. The SCD will learn more about current financial concerns of the hospital.
7. With administrative guidance, the SCD will pursue new courses of action to help impact the bottom line positively. Potential areas for measurable contributions include: correlating spiritual care with length of hospital stay, readmission rates, patient panic attacks, pain medication requests, complaints, lawsuits, and Advance Directive completion rates (if applicable); correlating SCD staff services with turnover rates, to include new employee orientation, continuing education, crisis intervention, mediation of conflicts, and grief counseling; generating hospital income via community education, support groups, and fundraising; and demonstrating the effectiveness of spiritual care interventions overall.
8. The SCD will obtain assistance from hospital departments with research expertise to help design, execute and determine the results of studies documenting positive SCD effects on the bottom line.
9. The SCD is invited to ask the Editor for details about an effectiveness measurement instrument under development. (mariejohn50@att.net)

Conclusion

Demonstrating the positive impact of spiritual care on hospital bottom lines will allow you, its practitioners and educators, to continue your dedicated service as paid staff and treatment team members. At the same time, demonstrating the positive impact of spiritual care in the healing process for patients assures our ethically mandated attention to improving the quality of care.
